Foreseeing the impact of your research on society

POSTER SESSION FINALISTS

Nature's 150th Anniversary Symposium

After announcing the 150th anniversary symposium, we received a great number of high-quality proposals for posters, from which we have selected 20. There will be poster sessions before and after the keynote lectures. Please be sure to participate in it.

The two poster presenters judged to be the most suitable will be awarded the Nature Award and the SDGs award.

NATURE AWARD

Scientific research is essential for creating a sustainable and equitable society. The Nature Award celebrates the vital role played by early career researchers, recognizing that fresh ideas and outstanding visions have the potential to transform the way we live.

SDGs AWARD

The University of Tokyo promotes projects seeking to meet the SDGs in a wide range of fields. The SDGs Award has been established in the hope that universities will initiate the transformation towards a knowledge-based society. The criteria of the SDGs Award include positive impact, transdisciplinarity and inclusiveness.
